

STUBBORN HEART.

Joseph Hart

T.P. Woodard

1. Lord, shed a beam of heav'n-ly day To melt this stub-born stone a-way; And thaw with rays of love di - vine This heart, this fro-zen heart of mine.

2. But one can yet per-form the deed, That one in all His grace I need; Thy spir-it can from dross re - fine, And melt this stub-born heart of mine.

To hear the sor-rows Thou hast felt All but an ad-a-mant would melt, Good-

To hear the sor-rows Thou hast felt All but an ad - a - mant would

To hear the sor - rows Thou hast felt All but an ad - a - mant would melt, Good-ness and wrath in

To hear the sor-rows Thou hast felt All but an ad - a - mant would melt, Good-ness and wrath in ness and wrath in vain com-bine To move this stu-pid heart of mine. To move this stu-pid heart of mine.

melt, Good - ness and wrath in vain com-bine To move this stu - pid heart of mine. To move this stu-pid heart of mine.

vain com - bine To move this stu-pid heart of mine. To move this stu-pid heart of mine.

vain com-bine To move this stu-pid heart of mine. To move this stu-pid heart of mine.